

Breast Cancer: Invasive ductal carcinoma Stage 4 & Paget's Disease

6/3/2021

After I was tentatively diagnosed with breast cancer in November, 2020, and had to wait several weeks for more tests, my husband and I decided to seek alternative treatment to mitigate the damage and help strengthen my immune system until we got a definitive diagnosis. Dr. Lin's website and testimonials were very compelling so we chose him out of all the oncologists available in the NY area, and now, six months later, I must say that he has greatly exceeded my expectations, and I do not believe I would have made such a rapid recovery without his expert guidance and program of treatments and supplements.

I was able to see Dr. Lin right away, and on the first visit he conducted a comprehensive biometric scan of my body systems and recommended a protocol to begin correcting the deficiencies. I began the electrotherapy, infrared light and ozone therapy the next day and several times/week thereafter. The healing ointment he prescribed was especially helpful and brought immediate relief.

By the time I underwent further tests in January, I was already feeling better, but the mammogram and biopsy were grim: large 6 cm mass, lymph node involvement, and a 1.5 cm spot on my lung. Dr. Lin immediately recommended surgery or radiation since the mass was so large, and he said the cancer was spreading too quickly for his treatments to contain it.

We opted for radiosurgery at Dr. Lederman's NYC office, and by the time treatments began in early February, the tumor had grown to 10.5 cm. I also had a area on my breast where the tumor had ulcerated, and Paget's disease of the nipple, so it was a very grave situation. The doctor who did the biopsy and my gynecologist both told me I was going to lose my breast and would need chemo for the rest of my life.

I had intensive radiation treatments for two months. I resumed my treatments with Dr. Lin after a few weeks and could see the difference immediately as my strength started to return. Dr. Lin helped me with several minor issues along the way: a UTI and an eye infection. Amazingly, he discovered that a much stronger colloidal silver was available, which has proved to be very effective.

By mid-April, the Paget's disease was almost completely gone, replaced by new skin. The tumor which had been palpable and visible had receded a great deal, and I was feeling much better, although I was tired and weak from the radiation.

The most difficult remaining issue is a deep ulcerous wound where the tumor had been that was exacerbated by the radiation.

A CT scan taken at the end of May revealed the incredible news that the 10.5 cm tumor was so small it couldn't be accurately measured, and the lung spot is exactly the same size it was five months ago. We are astonished at how quickly the tumor has vanished---in the space of four months.

Dr. Lin after reading the results immediately went into action again, revising my protocol for the next phase: eliminating any remaining cancer stem cells.

Since starting his latest protocol, I feel a renewed sense of energy and well-being, and even the wound which was very slow to heal (my radiologist said it would take years to heal), has miraculously made rapid progress in the last week and is beginning to close.

I cannot believe the incredible change in my breast since the end of January when it was a true horror show. Now it is returning to normal, though I will have a scar, but my breast is still intact, and, incredibly, no mastectomy was required. People I know who see me cannot believe that I am recovering from advanced breast cancer. They say I'm "radiant" and "glowing"----which I believe is an effect of Dr. Lin's invigorating electric and ozone therapy.

Dr. Lin has been with me every step of the way in this journey of healing, giving us invaluable advice and encouragement, supporting us in the darkest days, patiently answering all our questions and adapting immediately to every change in status. His powerful supplements made in his own pharmacy have proven to be a tremendous aid in restoring my health and helping me to recover from the effects of the radiation.

Dr. Lin is a brilliant, kind and compassionate physician, and I know I would not have come so far in such a short time without his expertise and resourcefulness.

Julie

Remark: Dr. Lin Does Not Treat a specific condition, instead of helping the body's natural Self-Healing and Self-Regulating functions.